CONSENTRY CUSTOMER, FAYETTEVILLE STATE UNIVERSITY, TO SPEAK AT THE 2008 GARTNER IT SECURITY SUMMIT

WHO: Joseph Vittorelli, director of systems and infrastructure at Fayetteville State University, will speak on a panel titled "Network Access Control (NAC) Case Studies" at the Gartner IT Security Summit in Washington, D.C.

Fayetteville State University recently selected ConSentry Networks' next-generation switching solution to address the growing need for a network-based identity and access management.

WHAT: The largest East Coast event of its kind, Gartner IT Security Summit 2007 attracted more than 1,400 attendees and over 100 sponsors. Attendees were treated to Gartner's leading-edge research and client case studies, centered on Security 3.0, a dramatically different approach to the discipline of IT security. Security 3.0 enables organizations to stay ahead of myriad threats they contend with today — as well as those they'll be fending off tomorrow. Gartner IT Security Summit 2008 promises to be even better than last year's Security Summit and to provide security professionals with state-of-the-art strategies and tactics they need to stay successful.
